

YOUR SUPPORT YOUR CHOICE

I want self-directed support
which will give me MORE choice and control over the support I get!

Page 8 What do these words mean?

Who is self-directed support for?

For any child or adult who the Council agrees need extra support with everyday activities.

What does self-directed support mean for me?

More choice and control over my support.

What are my choices?

There are 4 choices I can choose from called Options.

Option 1

“I get the money to spend on the support I choose.”

The Council gives me the money to arrange and pay for my support. This is called a direct payment. I can employ a personal assistant or buy services from a support provider.

Option 2

“I tell the Council how to spend the money”

I choose what the money is spent on. The Council or my support provider manages the money for me.

What are my choices?

Option 3

"I let the Council decide how to spend the money"

I ask my Council to choose and arrange the support that it thinks is right for me. The Council manages the money.

Option 4

"A mix of options 1, 2 and 3"

I choose more than one of the other 3 options and decide:

- when I arrange my support
- when I choose my support and have someone else arrange it
- when the Council chooses and arranges my support

If I'm happy with my support I can keep it.

How do I get self-directed support?

1. Meet with a social worker to talk about the support I need in my life and what is important to me.

2. This is called an assessment.

3. My answers help the social worker find out how much money is needed to pay for my support. This is called my support budget.

How do I get self-directed support?

4. I may need to pay some money towards my support budget. The Council may pay some of my support budget.

5. I make my support plan with my social worker.

6. I tell the social worker which option I want for my support.

How do I get self-directed support?

What if I don't like the option I choose?

Tell the social worker and choose the option I want instead. The social worker will make the changes needed.

What if I want help to get self-directed support ?

I can ask a friend or family member to help me.
I can ask my social worker for information about an advocate who can help me.

Local Independent support is available to help people understand what Self Directed Support is and how you can access this in your area.

Self-directed support tells Councils to:

1. Involve me in the conversations and decisions about my support needs.

2. Give me the information and help I need to choose which self-directed support option is best for me. I can get help from an advocacy service.

3. Work with me when completing the assessment and support plan.

4. Listen to my opinions, choices, and decisions.

5. Make it possible for me to use my support to be involved in my local community.

What do these words mean?

Advocate

An advocate can help you get and understand the information you need to make decisions.

An advocate can help you share your opinions, choices, and decisions.

If you think you need an advocate look at Scottish Independent Advocacy Alliance at www.siaa.org.uk/

Advocacy Service

The organisation where advocates volunteer or work.

Assessment

An assessment asks questions about you and your situation. It tells the social worker if you need extra support to live your life.

Options

Choices.

Personal Assistant

Someone you employ using your support budget. You can only employ someone using option 1, a direct payment.

What do these words mean?

Social Worker

A social worker will meet with you to talk about your support needs as part of the assessment process. These support needs will be written down in your support plan. The social worker will tell you how much money will be needed for your support.

Support

Help you need to live your life.

Support Budget

Money to pay for the support you need to live your life.

Support Plan

Describes how your support budget will be used to meet your needs.
